

How tests and experiments fit together: real data is explored (no truth) to build synthetic generators (known truth) that the tests run on.

